Report of Magazine's Troubles Put Up to Postmaster

Warning Only Was Intention

Letter Unfortunately Worded, Says Washington Explanation

WASHINGTON, March 9.—William H. Lamar, solicitor for the Postoffice Department, issued a statement today denying that the March issue of "The Metropolitan" had been barred from the mails and the revocation of second class mail privileges was being considered.

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE TO "METROPOLITAN"

OFFICE OF THE POSTMASTER
United States Post Office
NEW YORK, N. Y.
March 2, 1918

Postmaster of "The Metropolitan,"
432 Fourth Avenue,
New York, New York.

Gentlemen:
You are hereby notified in accordance with advice from the Solicitor for the Post Office Department that the March 1918 issue of "The Metropolitan" is non-mailable under the Espionage Act, (Section 4812, Postal Laws and Regulations.)

Very respectfully,
T. G. PATTEN
Postmaster

to the postmaster at New York to-day, in which he said that a letter he sent the postmaster March 1 "may have been so unfortunately worded" as to warrant notifying the publishers of "The Metropolitan" that the March issue was non-mailable, but that his intention was simply to put the postmaster on his guard against this and certain other publications.

It is clear from the statement that the notice sent the publishers to the effect the March issue was non-mailable was issued by the New York postmaster. "My attention has been called to statements published in this morning's newspapers to the effect that the March issue of 'The Metropolitan' Magazine had been barred from the mails and that the department is considering the revocation of the second-class mailing privilege of this publication. Neither of these statements is correct. The facts are that in the latter part of February the March issue of 'The Metropolitan' Magazine was accepted by the mails and regularly dispatched by the New York City Postoffice and distributed throughout the country."

"Shortly thereafter a number of complaints were received from its readers complaining that an article which appeared therein under the heading 'Is America Honest?' by William H. Hard, will be in violation of the espionage act. "In view of the fact that this issue had already passed through the mails a ruling as to the mailable of this article was not thought necessary, but on March 1 the attention of the postmaster at New York was called to the complaints received. I sent the following telegram to the postmaster at New York to-day: "I learned over the phone from Mulker to-day that 'The Metropolitan' Magazine was notified by you that March issue was held non-mailable by this office in my letter of March 1. That letter may have been so unfortunately worded as to fully warrant such notice to the publishers. Complaints had been received from the public against the article by William H. Hard appearing in that issue, and my intention was simply to put you on guard and have you in future examine this and certain other publications before dispatch." "This disposes of the matter so far as the Postoffice Department is concerned. "Until I talked with Mr. Mulker, the superintendent of the division of second class mails in the New York City Postoffice, to-day, I knew nothing of the notice sent to the publishers by the postmaster at New York, and have been surprised at the numerous telephone calls by members of the press with respect to this matter within the last twenty-four hours."

Tammany Leader to Give Thrift Stamp To Every Democrat in His Bailiwick

George Olvany to Present One to Each Enrolled Voter

Tammany is giving away War Savings Stamps. George Olvany, who marshals the tiger's forces in the 10th Assembly District, has notified W. S. S. headquarters in Chambers Street that by to-morrow night every Democrat in his bailiwick, man or woman, will be the owner of at least one War Savings Stamp.

Mr. Olvany told the W. S. S. managers that he had given instructions to present one thrift stamp to all those enrolled on the Tammany lists in his district. His assistants are passing the stamps out. Hundreds of the government stickers have been pasted on thrift cards, and by to-morrow night every Democratic voter in the district will be richer by just 25 cents.

W. S. S. headquarters did not know yesterday whether the stamps were the personal gift of Mr. Olvany or were being paid for by the Tammany organization in his district. Mr. Olvany was at Atlantic City and therefore no light was obtainable on the matter. To encourage saving among the voters, Mr. Olvany has been passing the stamps out. Hundreds of the government stickers have been pasted on thrift cards, and by to-morrow night every Democratic voter in the district will be richer by just 25 cents.

90 Factories Rush Liberty Truck Work

Entire Programme of Standardized Cars To Be Completed August 1

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Reports received to-day by Brigadier General Chauncey B. Baker, head of the War Department's Motor Transport Division, show that ninety factories are working to capacity on the standardized parts for the Liberty truck, and that the entire programme will have been completed before August 1. Five hundred of the Type A trucks will be delivered this month, 1,500 in April, 2,500 in May, 3,000 in June and the remainder in July.

It is expected that before midsummer further orders will be placed in anticipation of future needs. The Type A truck has a capacity of three tons, is intended of one and a half tons capacity, have been completed, and the department is ready to advertise for bids. Congress will be asked to authorize an appropriation sufficient to purchase 5,000 of the B Type. Motor experts assisting the government will begin plans shortly for motorcycles and bicycles. It is estimated that tens of thousands of each will be needed in addition to those already in use by dispatch bearers. The Motor Transportation Division also has perfected a passenger automobile, unofficially termed the "officer car," which is intended for the use of high ranking officers in France. The car is to be built in two types, one for the rapid transportation of parties of officers along the front and the other for long journeys. A chauffeur's school is to be established soon for the instruction of drivers for the various army vehicles.

Irish Convention May Be Swayed by Death of Redmond

Some Newspapers Believe Factions Will Be Influenced to His Policy

LONDON, March 9.—It is impossible to say what effect the death of John Redmond, the Irish leader, will have upon the Irish convention. Redmond's policy was all for conciliation. Some newspapers are going on the theory that the Irish are emotional people and believe that the deep sympathy aroused by the national leader's death at a critical hour of Ireland's destiny may influence all factions toward his policy.

As the meetings of the convention are secret, the trend of events can be judged only when the convention makes its report. Mr. Redmond's health kept him away from most of the recent sittings. Some of his followers thought him too willing to make compromises, and his disappearance from the scene may stiffen the Nationalist attitude, but that still is a matter of speculation on which no predictions can be made.

Nationalist Leader's Body Taken to Ireland; To Be Buried at Wexford

LONDON, March 9.—The body of John Redmond was taken to Ireland last night. Interment probably will be made Sunday in the family vault at Wexford. Messages of sympathy from Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra were among the tributes. Mrs. Redmond and yesterday. Queen Alexandra, in referring to the death of Mr. Redmond, said it was "an irreparable loss, which we all share."

About two thousand persons, representing all political parties, societies and organizations, attended a solemn requiem mass in Westminster Cathedral, Friday night, for Mr. Redmond. Premier Lloyd George, Andrew Bonar Law, Sir Edward Carson, Viscount Bryce, Attorney General Smith, Sir George Curzon, Home Secretary, and many political colleagues of the nationalist leader attended in person, while the King and Queen sent their representatives, and the general public filled the great cathedral. Mrs. Redmond, her son and daughter were the chief mourners.

Cardinal Bourne, assisted by high Church dignitaries, celebrated the mass, after which the Cardinal delivered a short address. The casket, covered with an Irish flag, was placed on a bier surrounded by floral tributes. At the entrance to the cathedral the Union Jack and Papal flag flew at half-mast.

Britain After Fake Officers Establishes Bureau Here to End Impostors' Activities

Under the direction of Lieutenant Colonel F. Fraser Hunter, of the 31st Lancers, British Indian army, a new office has been opened at 44 Whitehall Street. It will have a double purpose—first, of taking care of British and Canadian deserters under the arrangement the Federal authorities have made for their repatriation; and second, of preventing impostors from posing as British officers. "The splendid hospitality of Americans to officers of Allied countries has been abused in many instances by persons posing as heroes of the European war," said Colonel Hunter yesterday. "These humbugs are not confined to any one nationality, but those of British extraction get away with it more easily than others and we intend to curb their activities."

Changes Predicted In Lloyd George's Ministry in Week

Premier Himself Expected to Survive Drive of Opponents

Press Policy Assailed

Moderates Work in Open for Wilson Peace and Labor Grows in Power

[Staff Correspondence] (Tribune Cable Service)
LONDON, March 9.—"The ship of state is having a rough passage just now, but it appears still to be seaworthy."

That is the observation of a keen political judge regarding the present position of the Lloyd George government. Ministerial changes are probable within a week, but Lloyd George is almost certain to continue at the helm.

Never since he became Premier has Lloyd George faced so many sharpshooters. There is nothing strange in this. It has been the fate of every belligerent government when the fortunes of war were temporarily turned against it. To-day the George government is being attacked; first, because the Premier has enlisted the services of Northcliffe, Rothmans, Beaverbrook and other newspaper proprietors; second, because the shipbuilding programme has fallen down; third, because labor is dissatisfied with the man-power programme; and fourth, because a considerable body of opinion considers the day of the so-called knockout policy past.

No politician can question the government's right to reduce these men, but the method of their removal is subject to violent criticism. Sir Edward Carson and Austen Chamberlain, both Tories, are just as critical as Asquith and other Liberals. On Monday Lloyd George expected to present his case before Parliament and a lively debate was expected. Among the critics on this score are men who have been opposed to the war policy of "The Times," "Daily Mail" and "Daily Express," which are controlled by the Lloyd George ministers mentioned.

Real Fight Against Press
Though they are making a fight against these peers, their real opposition is a real one. The war policy of the newspapers is a real one. In a recent speech Giddens blamed shipping employers and shipbuilders for the breakdown in the output of tonnage. Immediately the shipbuilders' federation and the shipyard's trades unions issued a statement placing the responsibility "within the government itself." More will be heard on this subject soon because the whole fate of the Allied cause rests on tonnage.

More complete details as to U-boat sinkings and the tonnage output may be expected henceforth. The shipping problem is a much more serious one for the government to handle than the criticism of newspaper ministers. Labor forces, notably the Amalgamated Society of Engineers and the miners have yet to settle their differences with the government. The former maintain a strong stand against the conscription of their members until all the unskilled, semi-skilled workers have been drafted.

President Wilson has become the spokesman of the moderates of all the Allied countries, and as no one else has been able to advance a better policy, his is being accepted. Asquith is unquestionably the strongest supporter of his policy outside the government; within he has several. There is no mistaking the growth of the political power of labor. When

Wilson Moderates' Spokesman
The moderates, just as strongly opposed to the advocates of a military knockout, are now working in the open. For the first time since the war began those who would stake everything on military force and ignore diplomacy as a supplementary weapon find themselves assuming a defensive attitude.

Navy Works Sunday To Speed Recruiting

Special Arrangements Made to Enroll Men for Port Guard

Rules and precedents go by the board when the United States navy rolls up its sleeves and gets ready for business. They'll prove this to-day in the Brooklyn navy yard when for the first time since America allied herself with the toes of Germany a recruiting office will be open Sunday. Official announcement was made at the yard yesterday that building 15, the enrolling office, will be open all day to-day to examine and sign up men for the new Naval Port Guard, which will maintain armed watch on all ships as they come and go from this harbor and guard their cargoes from possible depredations of German plotters. The navy wants 1,100 men for this new guard. They must be enrolled by to-morrow night. Five hundred already have been accepted out of the 700 who have tried to take advantage of this fine chance
